The maximum thermometer in use at this station has again had the misfortune to get broken; hence the maximum and mean temperatures cannot be recorded until a new instrument is received from the weather bureau.

Looking Forward.

Diggs—Do you know whether Alderman Blank still has his office on the second floor of the Cloudland building or not?

Biggs—No. He is now located on the nineteenth floor of the same building.

Diggs—Indeed! What was his idea of making the change?

Biggs—I guess he discovered he had no show of being elected to a higher office, so he concluded to rent one.—Chicago News.

The Unattainable.

while the weather is such as to make them a necessity, and will make a price on them that you cannot longer afford to be without one.

—The Buoy is commissioned to bring seller and buyer together for a most desirable bargain in real estate about two and-a-half miles from the Buoy office on the Parker road. Five acres of ground, fenced, with good two-story cottage and furniture for small family will be given away for less than half what the improvements cost, if taken very soon. Title perfect; location desirable. Call at or address the Buoy for full particulars.

—It is absurd for a man or boy to think of going poorly or uncomfortably dressed when T. C. Danford can fit the largest or smallest with ready made clothing at prices that leave no one an excuse for being shabbily clad. These garments must be sold, and Mr. Danford is not the man to put a price upon his goods that will drive a patron away before he makes a purchase. Try him and see.

—The churches of St. Andrews have united to have a fine entertainment and Christmas tree at the Methodist church on Christmas eve, Saturday, Dec. 24. All the churches are united in this, which leaves no room to doubt that it will prove a complete success. A unique entertainment is in preparation and every child in attendance will be remembered with some present from the tree.

—Nothing makes a more suitable holiday present than a judicious selection of chinaware or glassware, and no one in Washington county

Mrs. Eleanor Brown West, daughter of Benjamin W. and Eleanor Brown, was born at Fulton, Illinois, and died at Escanaba, Mich., December 8th, 1898, aged thirty-two years and six months.

In 1888 she was married to Chas. Ernest West, who died July, 1892. Her funeral took place Sunday, and the burial on Monday at Brandon, Wis., where she was laid by the side of her husband. Two children, Philip and Grace, are left to mourn her loss.

At the home of her mother, Nellie West passed from the earthly to the heavenly life, having borne with great fortitude the trying disease of tuberculosis.

She was devoted to her family, a member of the Christian Endeavor Society, and active in other church work in Escanaba, and in St. Andrews, where she made many warm friends. The winning sweetness of her character was felt by all who knew her, and a large circle who admired and loved her are left sorrowing.

Her faith in God was strong and grew firmer toward the last; she talked of her approaching death and was not afraid to go. A few hours before she went quietly to her rest, her mother read to her the twenty-third psalm; a pressure of the hand true earthly happiness, if it existed, would consist?"

He gave the question careful consideration before he answered.

"In having weather that would enable one to wear an overcoat in summer and a crash suit in winter."—Washington Star.

Why He Refused to Pay.

"One dollar, please," said the clairvoyant.

"Not much," he replied. "I'll not pay you a cent."

"Do you think I reveal the future for nothing?"

"I don't care anything about that. You told me I was to marry three times, and I don't propose to put a premium on bad news."—Chicago News.

There is no medicine in the world equal to Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for the cure of throat and lung diseases. This is a fact that has been proven in numberless cases. Here is a sample of thousands of letters received: "I have tried Chamberlain's Cough Remedy while suffering from a severe throat trouble, and found immediate and effective relief. I can unhesitatingly recommend it." EUGENE W. WHITTEMORE, Editor Grand Rivers (Ky) Herald. For sale by L. M. Ware & Co., St. Andrews and Bayhead and all medicine dealers.

more extensive stock of these articles than does T. C. Danford, and a visit to his store, corner of Loraine avenue and Cincinnati street will convince you that he is determined to sell, whether he gets first cost or not. They must go, and the early buyer gets first choice at the large assortments.

—The Loyal Republican Club of St. Andrews is arranging to give an entertainment at the St. Andrews Hotel on New Year's eve, which will be free to everybody. The entertainment will consist in vocal and instrumental music, recitations, dialogues and such other attractions as can be prepared for the occasion, and to cap the whole, a tree loaded with presents for old and young—no one attending to be slighted, and no presents calculated to wound anyone's feelings will be allowed to be placed upon the tree. A post office will also be a feature, and if by accident any person is overlooked on the tree they will find a present in waiting at the postoffice. Nothing of a political nature will enter into the entertainment and democrats and populists will be as welcome to attend as anyone. The olive branch of peace will be the emblem of the evening, and harmony will be the watchword to greet both old and young.

and a sweet smile showed that she heard and understood the comforting words.

Dividends Out of Life.

The fools who give the 24 hours to business and boast of it may criticize the man who can expel business from his mind and enjoy his books, his friends, his club, the theater, the opera, the dinner or the dance, but the cheerful man gets dividends out of life where the other gets trouble.—Chauncey M. Depew.

Jealousy.

"Is she very much in love?"

"Much in love! Say! She heard some one say that all the world loves a lover, and she's been jealous ever since."—Chicago Post.

A Tennessee lady, Mrs. J. W. Towle, of Philadelphia, Tenn., has been using Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for her baby, who is subject to croup, and says of it: "I find it just as good as you claim it to be. Since I have had your Cough Remedy, baby has been threatened with croup ever so many times, but I would give him a dose of the Remedy and it prevented his having it every time." Hundreds of mothers say the same. For sale by L. M. Ware & Co., St. Andrews and Bayhead and all medicine dealers.
